After extensive interaction with mother, kit will not be completed.

RN was called to pt's room by mother. Mother stated, "Do we really need to do the kit?" Mother states that she does not think that the kit is necessary because she doesn't want to "put [her] daughter through that again." When asked why the patient was brought to the ER, mother stated, "I wanted to make sure that she didn't have a UTI or yeast infection because she is showing signs. And she made a comment that 'daddy touched my crotch' when she returned home from her dad's this weekend." RN explained to mother that if she wanted the kit done, we could do it, but if she does not want a kit, it is her decision. Mother stated, "she has been going through this since she was 7 months old when she came home her dad's house and was masturbating at 7 months old." This RN stated that we would do everything we could to get her the follow up she needed. Mother asked whether I believed Dr. Sangita would testify in court on the behaviors of children after sexual assault because mother stated her "daughter has shown many signs after returning from her father's, like not wanting to take a bath, go to bed, and takes my hand and puts it by her crotch and states, 'like daddy's house.'" This RN informed mother that most ER doctors do not go to the court to testify for behaviors unless they correspond with findings. Informed mother that most times, medical professionals go to court to testify against findings related to the patient, and not general actions that are common with sexual assault children. When asked what patient wanted from this ER, mother stated that she needs outpatient referral. This RN stated that a forensic investigator would be able to help her with interviewing the daughter in an appropriate setting to be able to get the information out that is necessary. The mother responded by saying, "Well she says it very randomly, what if they don't catch it?" This RN informed her that they are trained to interview pediatric patients of assault, and they will see her multiple times over a few weeks in attempts to get information about possible sexual assault. Mother stated, "Ok, I will take that number." When asked if there was any other reason mother brought pt to ER, she stated, "Well I wanted to make sure that she didn't have a yeast infection or UTI." This RN stated that the MD did an external exam to look for any signs of infection, and we ran a urine that will look for a UTI." Mother stated, "What does that doctor know about yeast infections and female problems, he's a guy." This RN stated that the doctor is trained and has 20+ years of experience, so he is more than able to tell whether something looks abnormal for a yeast infection or other genital infection. Mother states no further needs.

Stated Complaint: EVAL S

HPI

2-year-old female brought by mother for concern of possible sexual assault. Mother and father are separated and patient recently in the past 3 weeks started having visitation rights again with father. Patient was seen here in March for concern of sexual assault and rape kit was done. Patient was seen here 48 hours ago after being with dad with concern for sexual assault and a rape kit was recommended and mother refused. A urinalysis and urine for GC and chlamydia were sent 2 days ago. Urinalysis was negative and GC and chlamydia urinalysis is pending. Mother comes to the ER tonight stating that the patient spent Thanksgiving day with father starting at 10 AM this morning returned at 8 PM tonight. Mother states that she thought the child's vaginal area looked red and took a picture of it and came to the ER for evaluation for possible sexual assault by the father. Patient did not tell mother that her father touched her or did anything to hurt her today. Mother thinks perhaps dad is touching patient outside on her diaper with his fingers or with his penis but she does not know for sure and patient has not alleged any of this. Mother states perhaps her vaginal area is also red because of father is not changing her diaper. Mother would like an evaluation to discern whether redness in the vaginal area is due to wet diapers versus sexual assault.

MDM

2-year-old female to ER for complaint of possible sexual assault by her father as above long discussion with mother about this and evaluation for this. When I first saw this patient I recommended to the mother that a rape kit be done. Mother refused to have a very acute done at first and then said she wanted to have it done. My nurse and I wanted to start her indicated mother again refused the rape kit and told me that she wanted me to just examine her daughter and tell me whether or not she had been touched. Long discussion again with mother that the child could have a normal exam and still be attached or sexually assaulted and the rape kit needed to be done. Mother vehemently refused the rape kit and asked me to just examine her daughter. On exam patient with very mild erythema to the labia minora and rectum without any discharge or lacerations. Long discussion with mother that it is unclear the cause of the mild irritation was due to wet diapers, poor hygiene or if the patient could've been touched by the father. Mother very difficult throughout stay in the ER and continued to refuse to have the rape kit done. Mother then approached me and said that she had to give the patient to the father tomorrow and if she didn't let him have her tomorrow she can go to jail and was already in contempt of court. Long long discussion with mother about rape kit sexual assault and young children. Discuss with mother that if she has concerns about sexual assault she needs to bring her daughter in for evidence collection with the rape kit and mother states she will think about this and decide if this is something she would like done. Repeatedly told mother that our recommendation was to have a rape kit done and mother refused. Discharged home with mother. After discharge, mother called the ER and I spoke with her and she instructed me that I needed to document my charting correctly or else.

arrival we recommended that the kit be done. We explained to her parts of the kit that would have to be obtained. Mom states that is not what they did last time. Mom asked what the kit entails. We explained to her the kit and depending on the doctors judgment and mom's concerns there might have to be swabs and collection of possible clothing, nail scrapings, hair and possible other collections. Mom then refused the kit again. Second call to DCFS made. Update to the Peru Police department made.

Mom states "So much time has passed that the symptoms have gone away." Mom states "Its been three hours and the gunk is now washed away in the diaper and she's less red." Mom has been explained to several times that since her arrival we recommended that the kit be done. We explained to her parts of the kit that would have to be obtained. Mom states that is not what they did last time. We explained to her that depending on the doctors judgment and mom's concerns there would have to be swabs and collection of possible clothing, nail scrapings, hair.
